

A black and white photograph of a dark, rocky cave interior. The scene is dominated by a large, textured rock formation in the center, with several stalactites hanging down from the ceiling. The lighting is low, creating deep shadows and highlighting the rough, layered texture of the rock. The overall atmosphere is mysterious and dark.

Violet and I often have a quiet drink after work in our favorite bar on the Mobster Strip. It's not unusual for some drunks to try to hit them up and she usually bounces them off with a cutting one-liner. One night, a particularly persistent guy just wouldn't give up asking for her phone number, insisting that he recognized her from somewhere.

Eventually, she arched one eyebrow and said:

"My phone number has 11 digits and they sum to 46. Vowels in my phone number are a cube, deadly sins, not in German, love in tennis, strings are a violet, degrees of separation, atomic number of lithium, foreman of the association, columns of the calendar, date in a quadrant."

He asked her to repeat the problem but, smiling, she refused.

WHAT IS VIOLET'S PHONE NUMBER?

Three types of decision-outcome relationships:

certainty

- complete certainty (not a game at all)

risk

- the outcome is at a quantifiable risk

uncertainty

- the outcome is completely unknown
